

Translate each statement into algebra.

THEN...

- Underline each term.
- Highlight each coefficient.
- Circle each constant.

Nine less than two times a number is no less than the sum of five times the number and two.

The ratio of a number and eighteen is equal to the difference of the number squared and five.

Eleven more than four times a number squared.

The difference of seven and a number is not equal to the sum of twice the number and two.

Make your own!

Translate each statement into algebra.

THEN...

- Underline each term.
- Highlight each coefficient.
- Circle each constant.

Nine less than two times a number is no less than the sum of five times the number and two.

The ratio of a number and eighteen is equal to the difference of the number squared and five.

Eleven more than four times a number squared.

The difference of seven and a number is not equal to the sum of twice the number and two.

Make your own!